

Gautama Buddha (according to what I have read) referred to re-birth. What do you mean by reincarnation? Re-occurrence? Do you believe in reincarnation? Do you view it as a "theory-must-be-true" or is it an ability to remember? When a person awakes, is he aware of such incarnations.

You ask me to define words. There can be no feeling, intuition or imagination until the feeler, intuer and imaginator are known. (Really pretzeled that one).

I am not so curious to investigate your techniques as I am to understand you. Understanding (God-damned or otherwise, all I have) may well be the kind of friendship that will account for confidence. Friendship must have some definition else we can dispense with the words. It is hard to pin it down & disagree from it.

Thanking you for your time
